To Whom It May Concern:

SUBJECT: REFERENCE LETTER FOR MR. DENNIS DAVISON

As a software technical lead for a leading telecommunications company, I reported for several years to Mr. Dennis Davison who was team manager. Dennis worked tirelessly to ensure our projects came in on time and within budget. He always showed a genuine interest in his staff on a personal level and had full confidence in our abilities to provide excellence and value for the company.

When we were assigned a very large project to complete in limited time and with limited resources, Dennis always showed a positive can-do approach, provided any necessary tools and outside resources required for the project while deflecting lower priority interruptions from his staff that would have put our timeline at risk. The project was a complete success.

Dennis also worked as Architect on a project to decommission a mainframe accounts receivable system. During the time in this role he aggressively sought out and gained the technical skills required in order to do a deep dive into the system's applications. This enabled him to gather and organize key data, summarize and analyze it, and to present solutions to the Architectural committee.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sarah Field
